ARCHBISHOP O'LEARY

The priest, who in his later years attained the title Archbishop Joseph O'Leary, was a man dedicated to God and a servant to his neighbours. During his episcopal service he sacrificed his time and energy incessantly to promote and extend Catholic education in our Archdiocese. A statement of Bishop O'Leary's philosophy of education reads:

"The intellect, the memory, the imagination, the will not to speak of the physical faculties, all require training and the most important part of education, is not so much that of the intellect as that of the will. In the formation of the good citizen, intellectual instruction alone will never supply the deficiency of the will. On the contrary, the better instructed intellectually, if the will is perverted towards wrong, the more dangerous will that man be to his fellow-man and to society in general."

Let us respect this great priest's works and make our school a credit to his name.

DEDICATION

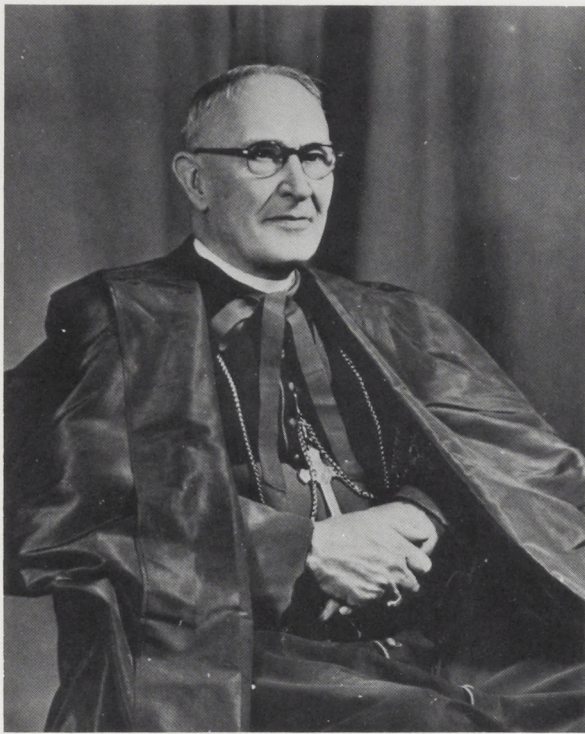

"We have endeavoured to pass on to you the torch of aspiration and the ambition to be, to do, each according to his ability."

These words are selected from Sister Theresa Marie's message to the graduates as it appeared in the first edition of "THE ENVOY."

When O'Leary High School opened in September, 1960, Sister served as principal of the Girls' School. In this capacity she pioneered for two years in the co-administration of our new high school. The attitude indicated in the excerpt quoted is characteristic of her ever present concern for the betterment of her students. In her wonderfully cheerful and kind manner she instilled into the girls of O'Leary High the ambition to work hard, both at their studies and at making O'Leary a school of which they could be justifiably proud. It is the opinion of the students who know her, and of those who can only judge her by O'Leary itself that she was ever mindful of her responsibility to "pass on the torch of aspiration."

With fond remembrance and deep gratitude we dedicate "THE ENVOY '63" to Sister Theresa Marie.

CONGRATULATIONS FROM HIS GRACE ARCHBISHOP MACDONALD

Congratulations to you all, teachers and students, on the good work done last year, and indeed on the good work being done there all the time. Great expectations were held for the O'Leary High School from the first, but even the most optimistic hardly expected such transformation of environment and such gratifying progress in the class rooms in so short a time.

We are living in strenuous times. You have therefore an opportunity of seeing and hearing many things which your elders did not have a chance to learn while they were going to school. Your faith in divine providence should be strengthened because of these events, but you may run across a few whose faith may be lost through stupidly thinking that man has finally mastered all the secrets of the universe.

You would hardly expect me to write even this much without some mention of the second Vatican Council which is now in session. May I express the hope that you all join with me in thanking God for the improved relations between Catholics and others since almost three years, when Pope John first announced that he would call a General Council of the Church. His discourses and conversations, his kindness and fairness have won the respect and confidence of all mankind, except those behind the iron and bamboo curtains. Even those must have admired him as a fearless champion of truth and justice, but they do not love him.

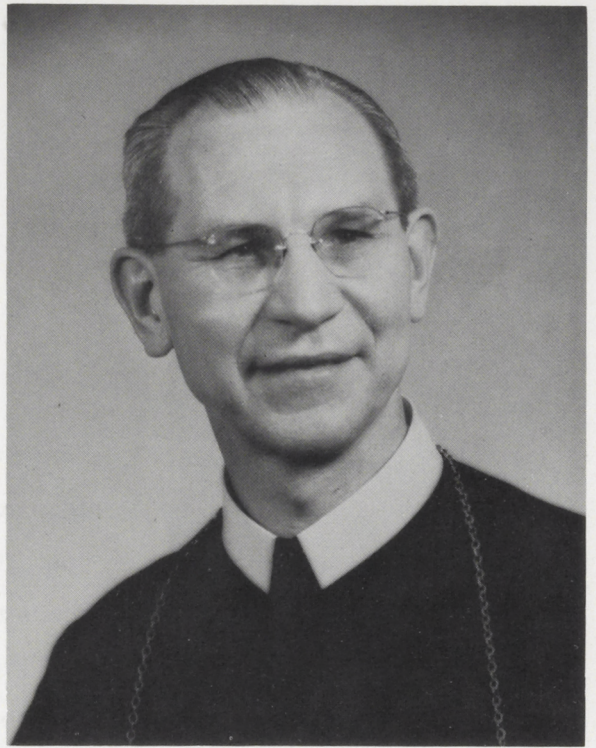

Note that one of the principal aims of the Council is to bring about the reunion with our Church of those whom Pope John loves to call "our separated brethren." Doesn't that suggest to your minds what a grand thing it would be, and what a devout consummation, if we by our prayers and good example, could bring back to our fold all those prodigal children who have fallen away from the Church, no matter where the blame for their lapse may lie.

Praying God to bless you all, I remain,

Sincerely yours in Christ,

Archbishop of Edmonton.

BEST WISHES FROM HIS GRACE
BISHOP SAVARYN

Dear Graduates:

You leave O'Leary High School to take your position on the battlefield of life. At the high school, you have received an intensive academic and moral training. Now you enter the ranks of adulthood prepared for even the most formidable combat.

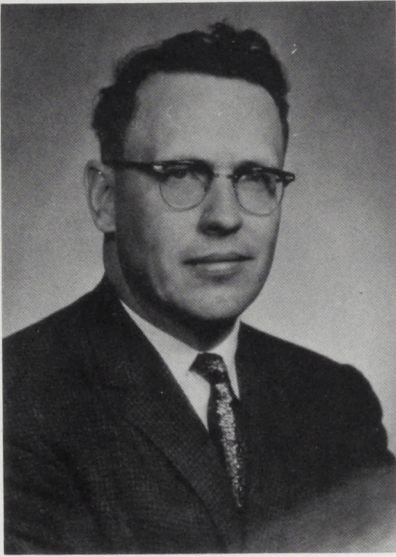

The Christian principles with which you have become imbued will be insolently challenged. But, being strong in Faith and armed with the weapons of prayer and frequent reception of the Sacraments, you are certain to withstand even the most bitter, prolonged attack.

Wherever you go, whatever you do, radiate goodness and truth. As refined young men and women be ever conscious of the lofty ideals of Christian manhood and womanhood. In the fulfillment of your vocation, be what it may, be an ardent follower of Christ.

I extend my sincerest congratulations to you and may God bless you most generously and help you in all your future endeavours.

With kind personal regards and best wishes, I remain,

Sincerely yours in Christ,
Neil N. Savaryn, Bishop.

SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE

In this scarred and scared world, technological advances and bursting knowledge have had a profound influence on modern thinking. Yet, it has been firmly established that only a sound academic education and sound moral training can provide youth with education that will not become obsolete in today's changing world. Your teachers at O'Leary have endeavored to provide you with the finest possible education, designed to be your anchor in a world cast adrift from religious principles.

H. A. MacNeil, Superintendent

It is our hope and prayer that you, the graduates, may achieve success in the deepest meaning of this term and that your Catholic education will stand you in good stead at all times throughout your life.

EDITORIAL

Following the precedent set by last year's Envoy, we have endeavoured to give you again a yearbook which pictures the life of O'Leary - a life of learning and giving, of sport and fun.

Synonymous with the name "O'Leary" is "school spirit" - that abstract quality which cannot be captured on film nor justly expressed in words. Of a school it is the very blood stream imparting, as it does, inspiration and stamina to its scholars, physical energy and endurance to its athletes, vitality and enthusiasm to its lovers of the fine arts, and vim and vigor to all its loyal supporters.

In Envoy '63 we hope to present this year's graduates (the first to receive their complete senior high school training at O'Leary) with a book which will remind them of the problems, the joys and the lighter things of life which made their years at O'Leary memorable.

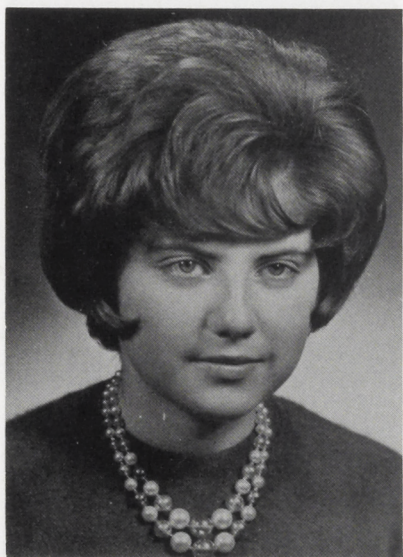

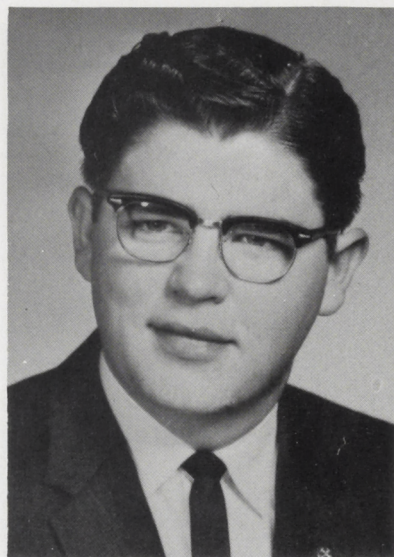

Lastly, may we extend our most profound thanks to the Principals,

Sister Marguerite and Brother Hilarion; to the devoted advisors, Miss MacLellan, Miss Guedo, Mr. Spohn, and Mr. Stacey; to the hardworking staff and to all the O'Leary students whose co-operation and assistance made this year's Envoy a reality.

Yours in O'Leary,

Pat Kelly

STUDENTS' UNION

Basketball...Homework...Revue...Senior Prom

These are but a few of the many memories we remember as we leaf through the pages of this yearbook. We have much to be thankful for since we were blessed with a wonderful school, a willing teaching staff, and a school spirit that has prevailed unfailingly throughout the past three years.

Stretching out before us is the unknown and untried future. But now we are equipped with educational experiences and standards gained during the past twelve years. We sincerely hope that our efforts have been profitable and that we achieve true success in our future endeavors.

Farewells to good friends are always a sad undertakings and our good-byes to O'Leary are expressed with deep regret and hesitancy. We know that the graduates, will always cherish fond memories of our days at O'Leary.

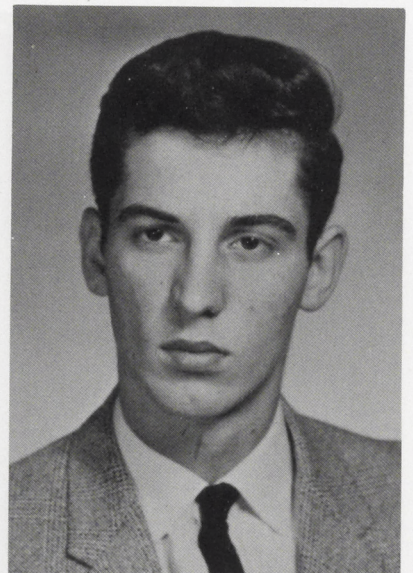

To our teachers we extend our thanks for their educational instruction and spiritual guidance. To the future graduates we express our wishes for their continued success.

Finally we offer our personal thanks to the whole student body for the opportunities you have given us to serve O'Leary. We have enjoyed our term as presidents and offer you our appreciation.

STAFF

FROM OUR PRINCIPALS,

Dear Student:

As the Envoy is being compiled and my tardy pen is pressed into service, I am quite concerned with your future. I have seen you watching clocks and calendars, wishing the days of your life away. I have seen our graduates content to rest among the unemployed or to work a few hours a day. Very few of us will ever see the biblical "three score and ten" years. In this life, we have the privilege of doing a few things well. I look forward to the day when a sense of purpose so overwhelms our student body that they seek knowledge with the fervor of a winless team seeking its first victory. (Yes, I just returned from the game against Jasper Place.) While you are in school, seek out things of value in your courses. When you are planning your future, have faith and courage then work with inspiration towards your goal. Keep in mind that there is no absolute yardstick of success outside of eternity. Whether the struggle be with Pythagoras, the personnel manager or the Devil himself, remember it is our lot ever "to seek, to find and not to yield."

Brother Hilario

"Viam veritatis elegi"

Such is the motto chosen by you and the others who with you made up O'Leary's first classes in 1960. The "way of truth" is not always--indeed it is not usually--the easiest way. "There are forces working continually against it."

"You live in an age that is twisted out of its true pattern, and among such people, you shine out, beacons to the world, upholding the message of life." Phil. 11, 15

May each of you accept the challenge offered by these words, applicable to the O'Leary grads of 1963 as they were to the members of St. Paul's audience.

That you will know through life the peace and joy that comes of letting your light shine is my wish for each of you as you join O'Leary's Alumnae.

WE HONOUR GRADUATES

62

SALUTATORIAN

I bring you greetings from the graduating class of 1962.

Two years ago, many of us that are here now, gathered to witness the official opening of the new O'Leary High School.

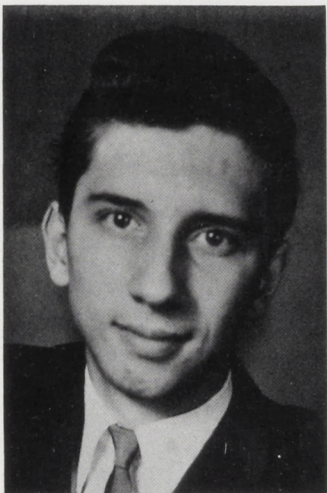

We had completed our Grade X in many different buildings---St. Joseph's, St. Clare's, St. Basil's, St. Alphonsus, and St. Anthony's College.

Despite our varied background, a pioneering spirit soon welded us into a class which, we think, will prove difficult to duplicate.

Many responsibilities, usually reserved for seniors, were entrusted to us in those early months.

We felt then and we still feel, that O'Leary High School is especially ours.

Therefore, it is as proprietors and hosts that we bid you welcome.

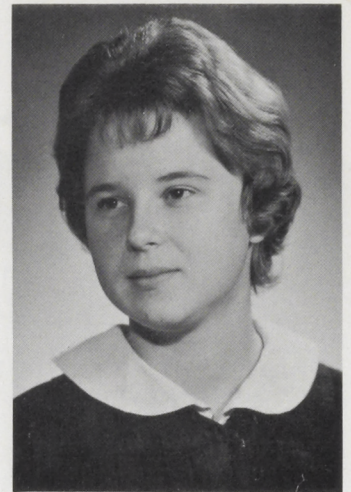

Peter Boetzkes

VALEDICTORIAN

Life has had some very happy days for us, but none to surpass this, our Graduation Day. And it is an added joy to share its happiness with you whom we call 'friends.

Music has become an essential part of every graduation programme, and rightly so, for is not music the medium through which we may best express the various moods that stir us on such an occasion? Each chord produces a perfect harmony, but each note of that chord has its own clear, distinctive tone.

June Wakaruk

To-night we wish to strike four different notes and combine them into one grand harmony. First, we would sound the deep rich note of gratitude--gratitude to God for the gifts he has bestowed upon us--gratitude to our parents who in a truly Christian home taught us that character is the cornerstone of all success--gratitude to the Sisters of St. Joseph, the Christian Brothers, and the lay teachers, all of whom have exemplified the beauty that lies in a life of service to others.

Next, we would sound the dominant note of our chord--genuine happiness. Happiness inspired, not only by sight of friends and flowers, but also by a sense of accomplishment akin to that experienced by the musician when he completes one movement of his composition. To-night we finish the prelude by graduating from O'Leary High School and we begin to develop our life's theme more fully in our chosen field of employment or higher study.

To set off our chord, we must strike a lonely minor note which some will think discordant. But 'tis not so! For, would it not be strange if we felt no twinge of sadness at leaving the friends we have made at high school? Is there not a whole-some fear which makes us diffident about 'striking out alone'? Our training at O'Leary has made us realize that life is real and life is earnest, but it has also taught us to strike the vibrant note of hope--not a foolish hope but a sincere hope that our efficiency and application of Christian principles will contribute something towards making this a better place in which to live. Each day will bring ample opportunities for increasing our knowledge and developing our personalities. For these we must be ready, and

"So act, that each to-morrow
Find us farther than to-day"

We have the honour of being the first graduates of O'Leary High School. May the harmony which stirs our hearts to-night with sentiments of gratitude, happiness, fear and hope be sustained throughout our lives and may it awaken pleasant echoes in the hearts of those to whom we stand as products of Catholic Education.

To-night we accept the challenge to prove the truth of our school's motto: "We have chosen the way of truth." And with the late Doctor Tom Dooley we will keep these words before us:

"The woods are lovely, dark and deep
But I have promises to keep
And miles to go before I sleep"

Anthony Wankiewicz and Peter Boetzkes are being presented with the Alberta Hotel Association's Scholarships by Mr. Keene.

12 B

This year for my annual two weeks' vacation with pay, I decided to just follow my nose. Out of nowhere, a town surrounded me. The large sign beside the road read: "Welcome to TWELVE-B-VILLE".

Near the outskirts of town I drove up to a green house. JANET BUGNET, the proprietor and her two assistants, PAT DALLY and ELIZABETH KESSLER told me that the plants belonged to Sister Margaret Rose. Before leaving the place I met HERVINA COLLINS, the town correspondent, who was checking the plants for their annual report.

As I came out of the driveway from the parking lot, I ran right into a large lamp post in the middle of the road. This, as I found out later, was an extra post in the town, placed there by town planner ANNA MAE HUNKA. Chief surgeon, LOUISE DENTINGER, assisted by nurses LEONA HERTER and JOAN NEWBERGER patched me up good as new. While I was at the Hospital, DONNA BERTRAND and MARGARET MC GONIGAL the town mechanics, repaired the damaged car. On my way down to pick up the car, I met the mayor who was none other than the old room rep. - GAIL DEINES.

The two of us had lunch at Toni's Pizzaria. Here I met the proprietor Antonette (Toni) Marano, and a few other prominent citizens. Among them were DALE CARNAHAN - the local chemistry 30 teacher, EMILY CARDINAL, DIANA MASKWA, and JUDY KUTNEY owners of the local business firms. Dressed to perfection came PAT WOLOSCHUK and LORRAINE LATANE and PATTI O'FLAHERTY, models and designers.

After lunch I stopped off at the travel Bureau where SHIRLEY KENNEDY and IRENE PARADIS gave me a lovely map of the town. At the next wicket, was SANDRA DEAN, a local inventor, on her way to get a patent on an electric tooth-brush. CATHY SZOSTAK and SYLVIA SYRNYK were buying tickets for a trip to the capital for a degree in medicine.

Before leaving TWELVE-B-VILLE, I stopped in at the insurance agency to see ADELINE SMADIS, my lawyer who was till going over last wills and testaments. On my way out of town I heard SUZANNE GOURDINE, the town crier making two announcements. One was something about an opera show being put on by REINA TOUSIGNAT, and the other about a theatre nursery run by MAUREEN KILBRIDE.

ARLIE TUCK, a close friend of mine and I (ANNE ELIEFF) plan to settle down in TWELVE-B-VILLE writing prophecies and fiction stories.

To The Graduates of O'Leary

Come hither, step forward, out of school
That has guided your life by the golden rule,
Shake hands with the life that you will lead,
We've given you warning, you should take heed.

Life is a challenge in which there's no rest,
Everyone's trying to better their best;
Away from the guided life you led in school,
Get ahead of the others or be played for a fool.

You are launched as leaders of an era in space,
There are numerous trials that you'll have to face.
Lift up your spirits and see all that's bright,
Then you'll look upon life in a wonderful light.

Step Optimum

Whatever may happen,
Don't ever dismay—
For each black, stormy cloud
Brings a sunnier day.

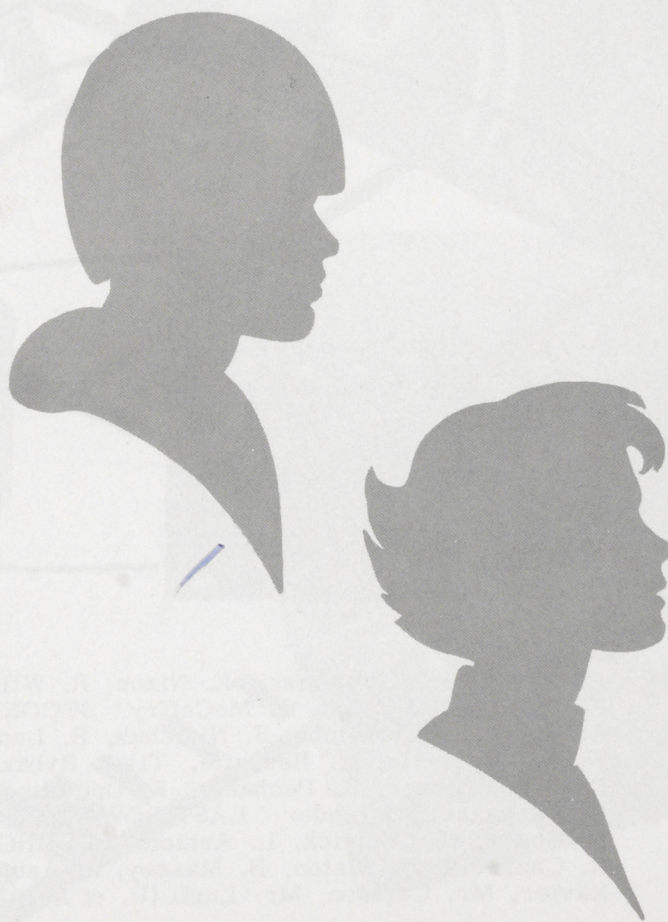

Each life's an adventure,
A long, winding trail,
Make the most of each moment,
And never you'll fail.

Hold true to your calling,
Ideals keep high,
And you'll constantly know
You've a Friend standing by.

May these words still linger,
In peace or in strife,
As each bend in your road
Brings new turns to your life.

"The woods are lively, dark, and deep,
But I have promises to keep,
And miles to go before I sleep"
— Robert Frost

"He is truly great who hath great Charity."

(Kempis: IMITATION OF CHRIST)

Now that our work on the Envoy has been completed, we would like to thank the many people who gave so much of themselves to the yearbook. The principals, teachers, advisors, and student staff co-operated fully. Our only hope is that Envoy '63 will always serve to be a treasure chest of high school memories for you.
